

Quinta do Castanheiro: Class and Beauty in Portuguese Limestones (Part I)

Colares, Portugal

This project bet on two Portuguese glazed limestones: Ataija Cream and Ataija Blue for practically all floors in the social area and for the bathrooms.

The "old-fashioned sink" was made in polished Ataija Blue (inside) and flamed (outside) integrated in the countertops of the same material. The result is stupendous!

The outdoor table, made in Ataija Blue with a brushed finish on the top and a lined split-face in thickness, has a rustic outcome which combine perfectly with the atmosphere of the place.

The end result is sober, balanced and refined.
