Gorgeous Residence at Praia d'El Rey (Part I)

Praia d'El Rey, Óbidos, Portugal

This house with contemporary features dared to combine the modernity of its lines with various types of natural stone, revealing a great knowledge of finishes: from the timeless Thassos White, to the modern Black Slate when honed (Part II), passing through the Golden Cream marble forced to rustic because it is lined split-face (Part III).

The floor of this house expands all social areas: the dolomite Thassos White in the honed finish makes the whole environment elegant and luminous.

In the living room, and contrasting with the smooth surfaces of the floor, was built a wall with irregular finishes in Golden Cream marble (as outside): the material was lined split-face thus bringing the exterior into the house.

The set is unique, the architect is to be congratulated, and the work carried out by our team was exemplary.
